Report:

Sex-selective abortion or female feticide has led to a sharp drop in the ratio of girls born in contrast to boy infants in some states in India. Ultrasound technology has made it possible for pregnant women and their families to learn the sex of a fetus early in a pregnancy. Discrimination against girl infants, for several reasons, has combined with the technology to result in a rise in abortions of fetuses identified as female during ultrasonic testing. For this serious issue government of India started a 'Beti Bachao Beti Padhao Abiyan'. The objectives of this initiative are- to prevent the gender biased sex selective elimination, to ensure the survival & protection of the girl child and make awareness for the education of the girl child. NSS unit of our college organized a poster exhibition on this important social issue in the college campus for the students.
